Pamela Sandborg is Senior Counsel in the Banking & Finance Service Group and the Real Estate & Finance Practice Group, where she concentrates on representing lenders in all aspects of structuring and documenting commercial loans. She represents regional and national lenders in both asset based and real estate related transactions, including development loans, mezzanine loans, syndicated financing, and loan participations. She has significant experience with inter-creditor issues and perfection of security interests in many types of unusual collateral, including aircraft, boats, and intellectual property.

Pam also provides substantive non-consolidation opinions on behalf of real estate investors ranging in size from small developers to publicly held real estate investment funds. She advises clients on bankruptcy-remote structuring, including issues related to recycled entities, tenancy-in-common and mezzanine financing.

Prior to her admission to the Illinois Bar, Pam was a paralegal with the firm.
