

Your Daily Three: May 22

May 22, 2020

Hello, clients and friends. It has been a long ten weeks since we occupied our offices, and we're sure it has been equally challenging for you. For us, the silver lining is that we have been given this gift of time to learn more about you and your businesses, to connect in ways we never thought possible, and to (hopefully) provide you with some practical advice. But you can only read lawyer posts for so long without needing a break. (Us too). So, instead, we've compiled for you a list of things that LP'ers have bought since sheltering in place.

We hope you enjoy, and please try to find some time this weekend to not work, to not worry, and to be grateful for all you have, even if you don't have a tortilla press. Read our list of "essential items."

P.S. We are not really into webinars. Instead, we are hosting weekly "Roundtables with LP" for those of you that prefer to hear real-time, direct answers to your specific questions, and participate in dialogue with other LP clients and friends. Here are a few upcoming sessions:

- Non-Recourse Loans and Carveouts
(Thursday, May 28, 12:00 p.m.)
- PPP: Frequently Asked Questions
(Thursday, June 4, 2:00 p.m.)
- Business Interruption and Continuity Planning (Wednesday, June 10, 2:00 p.m.)

Each session is limited to 15 participants to keep the sessions intimate and encourage dialogue. We know there is great value in hearing what others are doing and how they are responding to challenges and opportunities. Interested in more than one? RSVP here.
