Carrie Harrington is an associate in the Trust & Estates Group. She helps individuals, families and privately held businesses protect wealth and transfer assets in the most effective way. This includes, first, listening and fully understanding each unique situation before applying the proper tools to meet her client's goals. Her creativity and attention to detail when planning makes this consistently possible.

Carrie also assists financial institutions with trust and estate administration and controversy and routinely appears in court to handle contested matters. She works with corporate and individual fiduciaries and beneficiaries in administering and refreshing antiquated or impractical documents giving her a well-rounded practice.

Prior to joining Levenfeld Pearlstein, Carrie worked at another Chicago firm where she gained valuable experience in matters related to trusts and estate planning and administration as well as succession planning for closely held businesses.
